Thomas Fears Attack Would Not Be Limited

Testifies Before Senate Group on Navy Budget Requests

By United Press
A high administration official confessed before a group of senators today to fear that a Chinese Red attack on Formosa could not be limited to that Nationalist stronghold.

Such an attack, Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said, "might portend further operations and we would have to go into a greater mobilization."

But if the fighting were limited to Formosa, presently planned U. S. military forces would be adequate to handle the situation, Thomas said.

Thomas testified before a Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee on the Navy's fiscal 1956 request for $8,918,000,000.

Democrats have criticized administration plans to cut the armed forces by some 300,000 men in the next 18 months. Navy plans call for a cut of 27,000 in the Marine Corps.

Sens. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) and John Stennis (D-Miss.) urged that this cut be put off until the Formosan situation clears up. But Thomas said the situation is no more tense now than it was when the present manpower plans were made.

Other congressional news:
Denial: Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, denied he ever said the Chinese Reds were likely to attack Nationalist-held offshore islands by mid-April. He was quoted week before last as forecasting such a possibility to a group of newsmen at a private dinner. President Eisenhower subsequently repudiated the alleged prediction. Carney was quizzed about it at a Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee hearing. He said flatly he made no such forecast. All he discussed, he said, was Communist capabilities.

Missiles: Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said the Navy is rapidly shifting to guided missile weapons to give the fleet greater mobility and punch. He told a Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee that for the year starting July 1 the Navy is asking nearly twice as much money for guided missiles as it did last year. He said tests of new missiles "have been very successful."

Walter: Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) said that as soon as the House returns from its Easter recess he will take the floor to deny he is anti-Italian. Walter has been quoted by a Washington Star reporter as referring to Italians in an interview as "Dagoes" and as making other prejudicial statements about them. Walter said he was misquoted, a charge the Star denied.

TVA: Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he will draw no "hasty conclusions" but feels the Tennessee Valley Authority's proposal to issue bonds to help finance future expansion needs thorough study. Kefauver, a TVA supporter, said it is regrettable that the government-owned power agency must seek financial aid outside congressional appropriations and its own income for future growth. The administration refused to boost TVA funds and ordered the agency to work on a self-financing plan for expansion.

Gene Hauptmann, 6, Suffers Broken Leg; Hit by Auto

Gene, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hauptmann, suffered a broken leg at noon yesterday when struck by a car.

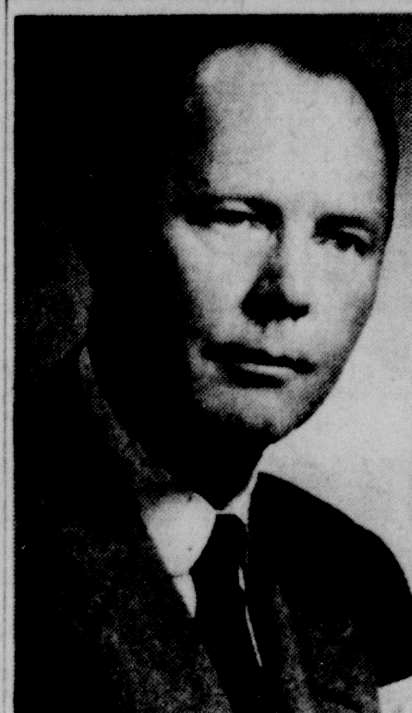

The lad's leg was set at the Harrisburg hospital, and after he remained there several hours was taken to his home.

City police said the boy was hit by an auto driven by Robert Groves, 18, of Harrisburg on Elm street between Horace Mann school and the playground to the north. The boy is a first grade pupil at Horace Mann.

Police also said that Groves was given a ticket for driving without an operator's license and was fined by Police Magistrate Charles McKenzie.

Chief Loren Travelstead said that another youth driving an auto also was given a ticket for driving without an operator's license. He was Wilburn Wetherington, whose car collided with one driven by Sidney E. Werner of Marion at Granger and Homer streets yesterday.

Travelstead stated that Willard Nelson reported to him that his automobile, in a funeral procession, was sideswiped yesterday afternoon on Route 145 near Mitchellville. The car, which kept going, was a 1950 Pontiac with Kentucky license plates, he told officers.

Sullivan, Choisser Buy Controlling Interest in Bank at Eldorado

J. Cecil Sullivan and Atty. Ralph W. Choisser have bought controlling interest in the First State Bank of Eldorado to become effective April 9, it was revealed today.

Sullivan revealed that the two had bought 261 shares of bank stock from Frank P. Parker and Helen Parker, his wife, out of a total of 500 shares in the bank. He said that final exchange would be made April 9. The price was not disclosed.

There was no indication of any change in bank personnel because of the change in stock ownership. Three of the five directors will remain on the board, Sullivan stated. They are C. A. McDonald, Robert Barton and W. B. Welch. Plans are for Sullivan and Choisser to take the places of Parker

Medical Society Announces Plan For Polio Vaccine

CHICAGO — The Illinois State Medical Society today announced a plan for administering Salk polio vaccine but continued its fight against mass immunization.

A society statement said "many immunologists, epidemiologists and health officers believe mass immunization is a dangerous procedure."

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis informed the society that only mass immunization procedures would be permitted.

This broke an agreement the foundation had established with medical groups, the society said, and "we still believe that the welfare of the child should come first and that the family physician is best qualified to judge whether or not to administer the vaccine."

A society spokesman said mass immunization is considered dangerous because some individuals might be sensitive to "foreign protein" in the vaccine or might have heart ailments that could be aggravated by the inoculation. These conditions, he said, would be known by the family physician but might not be immediately recognized in mass immunizations.

Also, he said, there might be some danger of cross contamination in mass immunizations that would not be present in a doctor's office.

Members of the society, however, will participate in mass immunization "where necessary," he said—in areas, for example, where there might be a shortage of physicians.

Under the society's inoculation plan, no charge will be made for the vaccine administered to first and second grade school children.

School administrators will certify that the child is in the first or second grade and parents will bring the certificate to the physician of their choice. The physicians will then be able to obtain the vaccine at no charge from health departments.

In Springfield, Dr. Roland R. Cross, state health director, said the objection to a mass immunization program "is something the medical society and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will have to settle."

Cross said county health groups submit their plans for the Salk vaccine inoculation program to the State Health Department, where they are forwarded to the national foundation.

"All we do is coordinate the local Health Department programs," he said. The national foundation in turn will send the Salk vaccine to Cross, who turns it over to the local health groups.

Board Asked To Extend City Water Mains

Requests Made by Buena Vista, Dorris Heights Spokesmen

The construction of additional water filters at the city water plant and extension of water lines beyond the city limits came up for lengthy consideration at Monday night's meeting of the Harrisburg Water Board.

Spokesmen representing families in the Buena Vista community west of Harrisburg and Dorris Heights, north of the city, appeared before the water board asking that water lines be laid to their areas.

The Buena Vista spokesman stated twenty families had signed an agreement to tap onto the water main when it was laid and had also agreed to contribute $150 each, a total of $3,000, toward the construction of the main.

A similar proposition was made by the Dorris Heights spokesman. In each case the city will bear the expense, if any, of extending the mains to the city limits, with the citizen groups providing the money for extensions beyond the city limits.

Sufficient Water
The Buena Vista group would connect to the city main near Shaw street and in Dorris Heights the main would be connected near the housing project. The main now extends to Shaw street, so there would be no additional expense to the city on the Buena Vista project.

In past year the Water Board could not consider serving customers outside the city limits, due to the lack of water. However, with the completion of Lake Harrisburg it is thought there now is sufficient water to extend water service beyond the city limits.

Extending the water lines depends on the additional filters, as the present filtering system is only adequate for the amount of water now used. Water service will be provided outside the city limits only after the filtering system has been enlarged.

However, building more filters was included in the $200,000 bond issue approved last year for the building of Lake Harrisburg and improving the water system.

This morning, at the regular meeting of the Harrisburg City Council the action of the water board for extending water service outside the city limits was tabled, pending additional study.

Johnson Urges City Council To Cut Expenses

The present council of the city of Harrisburg has entered its final month, as a new group will take over operations in May, and Finance Commissioner G. R. Johnson urged council members to cut expenses to the bone so the city can be in the black at the end of the term.

Johnson gave the financial picture at this morning's meeting. He said the amount available to run the city during April is $4,513.31, plus whatever comes in through collections, which should make the total figure around $6,000.

It was announced this morning that there are still about 25 good lakefront cabin sites available to residents of Harrisburg on Lake Harrisburg. Interested persons should contact either Mayor Hornung or City Clerk Olive Patterson.

A discussion of motorboating on the lake was discussed. The ordinance passed recently prohibits motorboating but there is some sentiment for permitting them on the lake and in the discussion, opinion was divided. The matter was tabled.

The council voted to pay the J. D. Barter Construction Co. $12,204.62 due it on the lake project and to pay R. D. Brown, lake engineer, a balance of $3,444.26 owed him out of a total fee of $8,289.72 for the lake project. All this comes out of the lake bond issue money.

Also paid today was $724.26 to the R. D. Brown engineering company for surveying and staking out the cabin sites. The money will come from fees collected for the sites.

Voters to Name School Board Members in Elections Saturday

Voters of Saline county today were casting their ballots in township elections and Saturday they return to polling places to name members of school boards of education and boards of directors.

There are seven boards of education in Saline county which will be naming members and the remainder of the districts will name school directors.

Boards of education are elected for the Harrisburg Township high school, Harrisburg city schools, Dorrisville school, Eldorado high school and city schools, Carrier Mills high school and city schools, Galatia high school and city schools, Raleigh school, Cottage Grove and Colbert school districts.

For members of boards of education, ballots are prepared for voting. Names are written in for school directors.

Here are the lineups for the boards of education voting:
In Harrisburg city schools District 43, V. E. Clayton, Hudson Mugge and Curtis G. Small, incumbents, are seeking re-election to the three posts without opposition.

The same is the case in the Harrisburg high school District 101, where Warren D. Tuttle and Alfred Johnson are seeking two posts without opposition. Tuttle is an incumbent.

In Dorrisville District 95, three are running for three posts. They are Robert (Bob) Mullinix, Marion Abney and Duane McClusky. Carrier Mills high school district there are four candidates for three positions on the board. Cebren O. Parks and Lee Ferrell are candidates for two positions on the board from outside the corporate limits and A. J. Henshaw and Hayward Lyles are candidates for the one post for member living inside the corporate limits.

No Race at Galatia
On the Carrier Mills grade school board, Morse Hill and Eugene Nolen, incumbents, and Kenneth Sweat and Max Rodocker are running with three to be elected.

Gilbert Miller, James Killman and Frank Conover, 72, well known carpenter, dies.

Frank Conover, well-known carpenter in Harrisburg, died yesterday at 6:30 p. m. at his home, 109 West Church, at the age of 72 years. Death followed a lingering illness of two years.

Mr. Conover was born in Harrisburg July 16, 1882, to Voorhies and Sarah Conover. On May 29, 1912, he married Sallie Tavender who survives him. He had been a member of the Carpenters' Union for more than 50 years.

Besides his wife, Sallie, he leaves four children: Mrs. Earl (Mary Lois) Dabney, Mrs. Jim (Sarah) Suver, and Herman Conover, all of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Madeline Little of Hobbs, New Mexico; four grandchildren and one brother, George Conover, of Harrisburg.

The body will lie in state at the Gaskins funeral home where services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. W. L. Cummins, pastor of the First Methodist church where he was a member, will officiate. Interment will be in Sunset Lawn cemetery.

Brother of John B. Cowsert Dies

Joe Cowsert, 54, brother of John B. Cowsert of this city, died in the Memorial hospital in Kennett, Mo., Monday at 4:15 a. m.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the First Baptist church in Kennett. Burial will be in the city cemetery.

Tears Glisten as 'Grand Old Man' Hands Resignation to Queen

Sir Anthony Eden Will Be Named Successor to Post

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill, the grand old man of empire, officially resigned as prime minister of Great Britain today.

Tears glistened in his eyes as he presented his resignation to the Queen.

Sir Anthony Eden will be his successor.

Churchill, who battled and defeated every enemy save the relentless passage of time, presented his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace.

The venerable statesman drove alone from his official residence at No. 10 Downing Street to the palace in the sunshine of a bright spring day. Cheering thousands applauded him in the streets.

He arrived at the palace at 4:29 p. m. and left at 5:11 p. m.

"V" for Victory

Then he went home to Downing Street and stood for a time, old and mute, his fingers raised in the "V" for Victory sign and tears standing bright in his eyes, while from Buckingham Palace the announcement came officially that he had quit.

The palace announcement said: "The right honorable Sir Winston Churchill had an audience of the Queen this evening and tendered his resignation as prime minister and first lord of the treasury which her majesty was graciously prepared to accept."

Eden is expected to be summoned to the palace Wednesday to receive the seals of office as Churchill's successor as first minister of the crown.

The emotional ordeal of handing his resignation to the youthful sovereign he considers his "young, gleaming champion" unnerved Churchill.

He cancelled a scheduled appearance in the House of Commons. He held a private farewell meeting with his ministers. Then, alone and in silence, he retired to be a back bench elder statesman in the House of Commons.

The magnificent old man, weighed by the 80 years of a life that helped mould an empire and fashion the shape of Western civilization, drove alone on his last official trip to Buckingham Palace.

For Churchill it was the winter of a lifetime of achievement seldom matched, and exceeded by few.

Quits Quietly, Sadly
But time and age came together on this warm and tranquil day in spring to bring his stewardship to an end.

He quit quietly and with sadness at the end of a final 24 hours as prime minister that were filled with deep emotion and rich affection.

Monday night he played host to his sovereign at a farewell formal dinner party and received the rare tribute of a personal toast from the Queen.

This morning, he cancelled a scheduled appearance before his beloved House of Commons, and his ministers answered questions in his stead.

The great statesman, whose sonorous words and unflinching will had carried this nation to new heights of greatness, was afraid

Nine Indicted By Grand Jury

State's Attorney K. C. Ronalds today revealed that nine persons were indicted of felonies by a circuit court grand jury yesterday.

Named in five indictments was Raymond C. St. Clair, charged with falsifying claim checks at the employment office and cashing them. All indictments charged forgery.

Frank Greeley was indicted on a charge of burglary and larceny. He is charged with stealing 41 bushels of soybeans from Everett Gates last Nov. 18.

George Batelli, Jr. and Robert Carroll of Chicago were named in an indictment charging larceny of a motor vehicle. They are charged with stealing the vehicle of Claude E. Shelton, Carrier Mills high school faculty member, Jan. 11.

Paul Edward Lukancic, Ralph Roy Roberts, William Roberts and Donald Fann were named in an indictment which charged burglary and larceny of 2,030 pounds of popcorn belonging to C. S. Hull and Norman Jones last Dec. 8.

Norman Jones was named in an indictment charging him with burglary and larceny of numerous items from the home of William R. Davis.

to trust his emotions in a farewell speech to Parliament.

But he called in the men who made up his government for a 45-minute farewell session with his Cabinet at the prime minister's official residence.

What went on there was a secret, save that Churchill and his ministers posed for a final photograph that would preserve the memory of their association.

Old Friends Meet
Then Churchill drove through parks once pitted by gun emplacements.

Rep. Gray Tells Of Efforts for Area Industry

Congressman Gives Report at Meeting Held at Court House

Congressman Kenneth Gray, reporting to the voters of the 25th Congressional district on his activities in Washington, spoke to an overflow crowd at the court house in Harrisburg last night. He has meetings scheduled throughout the district for the remainder of the week.

"Southern Illinois is now known throughout the nation," Congressman Gray declared, stating that he had contacted, either by letter or in person, 168 manufacturers who he understood were interested in re-locating plants.

He stated he had gone to the Department of Commerce and obtained the names of the manufacturers interested in either building new plants or moving to new locations. He then contacted the manufacturers and told them of the advantages to be gained by coming into southern Illinois.

Ten Speeches From House Floor

In the interest of the employment situation, in southern Illinois, Gray also stated he had talked with President Eisenhower and others high in government circles, outlining the economic situation of this area.

He also has made ten speeches from the floor of the House telling of the need for industry to relieve the unemployment situation in the 25th district.

An attempt is being made, Congressman Gray stated, to get the Saline River navigation project completed by the federal government, without local assistance. He stated the project was estimated at $5,000,000 and in the past the government had insisted that 15 per cent of the cost be bore locally.

He also has received written authority for the completion of Devil's Kitchen dam, a 2 1/2 million dollar project, which would employ many persons. The money hasn't been appropriated, but Gray expects the money to be available before his present term of office expires, he said.

Other activities include a request for an investigation of the Veterans hospital at Marion for the possible expansion of its facilities.

Bills Sponsored

Among the bills sponsored in congress by Gray is one to lower the retirement age for Social Security benefits from 65 to 60 years of age.

To limit the importation of flour spar to not more than 25 per cent of the total used, guaranteeing that domestic mines would furnish at least 75 per cent of the flour spar used each year.

To offer surplus properties to educational and public health units before put up for sale.

To limit natural gas sales to prevent selling in direct competition with coal.

He also is trying to get the tariff raised on imported residual oil as it is a threat to the coal industry. Gray stated 30,000 miners lost their jobs last year as a result in the loss of coal markets to the residual oil imported.

Rep. Paul Powell also spoke at the meeting. Steve Mitchell, chairman of the County Democratic committee, introduced the speakers and guests, including L. Oard Sitter of Anna, committeeman of the 25th Congressional district.

From Enemy to Ally

Editorial — By BRUCE BISSAT
Germany, just 10 years ago our bitter enemy in the greatest war of all time, is now seriously on the way to becoming a firm ally of the Western powers in the long struggle against communism.

The last major obstacle to this development was removed when the French Senate, in an historic daybreak decision on March 27, voted to rearm the Bonn government of West Germany and admit the Germans to NATO, the key-stone organization of Western defense.

A week earlier the German upper house had approved the Paris agreements embodying these developments. Thus the completion of French and German action leaves only endorsement by the U. S. Senate and by lesser NATO nations—all considered certainties—to give the pact full legal force. Assuming other countries proceed with reasonable dispatch, the creation of the projected West German army of 12 divisions—some 500,000 men—is still a good way off.

Both the French and the Germans will have many opportunities to delay and even subvert this rearmament. But the free world hopes that neither nation resorts to such efforts. The pact has been solemnized by the nations most closely affected, and they are in honor bound to execute their part with speed.

The crucial decisions taken by France and Germany do not, of course, end with Bonn's rearmament and admission to NATO. They provide for nearly complete political sovereignty for the Germans, and for a settlement of the controversial Saar issue that prescribes internationalization of the industrial region with heavy economic commitments to France.

Only time will show whether the Saar settlement has sown the seeds of future trouble between the two countries.

As for Germany gaining sovereignty, it means Bonn can now undertake diplomatic relations with other powers, including the Soviet Union. There is some speculation that Moscow, seeing that the Paris pact could not be blocked, will at the earliest chance propose a two-way meeting with the Germans to discuss German unity and related questions.

Being what they are, the Russians would naturally try at such a meeting to exact a price for unity which would nullify Germany's defense link to the West. We, and the Germans themselves, have a high stake in seeing that no agreement for unity is reached at the cost of Germany's new ties to the West.

But undoubtedly such possibilities lie well ahead and there is no need to borrow trouble at this moment. It is enough to voice gratification that this historic step—the drawing of Germany into the Western family—has at last been made possible.

Not since the adoption of the NATO pact in 1949—the first peacetime military alliance in America's history—has such a significant event occurred in free world diplomacy.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS:
John Foster Dulles Prefers Cheese To White House Quail; Ike Hasn't Made Up His Mind About Defending Quemoy; Army Cuts Still Stand, Despite Far Eastern Crisis.

WASHINGTON.—The business-like atmosphere of Eisenhower's recent luncheon with House leaders was broken when White House waiters brought in the main course—quail hash on toast.

John Foster Dulles politely declined the entree, explained he was trying to keep his weight down.

"I have been traveling abroad a great deal," explained the secretary of state, "and I've been eating more than I should—purely as a matter of diplomatic courtesy, of course. As a result, I am growing a trifle pudgy in the waist line. I know you won't hold me to any protocol, Mr. President, and will let me eat what I want."

"Certainly," agreed Ike. "What would you like to have?"

"Well, if you have a little cottage cheese in the refrigerator, it would do very nicely," replied the secretary of state.

The President called a waiter and told him to try to find some cottage cheese in the kitchen. As the waiter hurried off, House Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts also announced that he would appreciate some cottage cheese. McCormack, a devout Catholic, didn't bother to explain, but Lenten regulations limit him to meat once a day and he was planning to have steak for dinner in the evening.

A few minutes later the waiter returned with only one portion of cottage cheese.

"That's all there was," he reported to his boss, the President of the United States.

An Alphonse and Gaston sequence followed as the secretary of state and the House majority leader deferred to each other over who should eat the cheese.

"I insist that you eat it, John," said Dulles.

"No, no, Mr. Secretary," demanded McCormack. "I insist that you eat it. I only ordered it to keep you company."

McCormack went out and the cottage cheese wound up in front of Dulles. The House majority leader, unobtrusively pushed the quail hash to one side and ate some potatoes and red cabbage.

PRINCETON PROFESSOR QUIZZES

The two White House luncheons with Senate and House leaders did not vary much except that at the second luncheon Senator Alexander Smith, New Jersey Republican and a former Princeton professor, got tangled up asking his own questions. His questions were so involved that the President stepped in to try to help him rephrase them. Then Secretary Dulles came to the rescue; also tried to simplify the question so everyone could understand it.

As finally ironed out and boiled down, Senator Smith appeared to be asking: "Would the islands of Quemoy and Matsu be of any help to the United States in case trouble broke out again in Korea and we had to act there?"

The answer was: "No."

At both luncheons, the President refused to say whether the United States would or would not defend the two much-discussed off-shore islands.

"That is a military decision and I will make it, but I am not prepared to say now what or when it will be," he told House leaders. He added that he did not intend to tip off the Chinese in advance.

Senators and congressmen got the distinct impression—though this was not stated—that there had been no decision on this highly important, highly delicate point.

Note — Ever since the National Security Council met in Denver last September, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been trying to get the President to give them a decision on whether or not we will defend these small islands. And it was to nudge Ike's elbow and make him come to a decision that Admiral Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, got Admiral Carney to give his historic press briefing at which he let drop April 15 as the estimated date when the Reds would attack. The military have feared that if we pull out of Quemoy and Matsu at the last minute it will look like a defeat and lose face for us in the entire Orient. Hence they have wanted a decision.

OPPOSES ADMIRAL CARNEY

House leaders were told that there had been some "sporadic firing" by Chinese artillery from the Chinese mainland, but the President explained this might have been aimed at creating tension. It did not necessarily mean that the Reds were ready for war.

"The situation is admittedly dangerous," he said in brief, "but it is by no means hopeless — as some people seem to think."

He added that he was quite optimistic about Europe, where conditions were greatly improving.

Without naming names, the President placed himself in opposition to the estimate of Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Carney, that the Reds would attack on April 15.

Inside fact is that Army intelligence places the attack date at around April 15, while Central Intelligence figures the attack will come in June. The President apparently sided with the CIA estimate. However, both intelligence agencies agree that, regardless of the date, an attack will be made on Quemoy and Matsu.

"If war does break," Eisenhower summarized, "the Communists will pick their own time. We can't be sure when it will be, but we don't think it will happen very soon."

NO BIGGER ARMY

One of the most important questions Eisenhower was asked—this one at the Senate luncheon—was whether he would agree to a Big Four conference. Senator George of Georgia, who recently urged such a conference was especially interested.

The President was not categorical in his reply, but indicated that he would be willing to sit down with Marshal Bulganin of Russia and with the French and British sometime later — probably in November.

This fits in with current Republican strategy to hold the conference at a time considerably removed from Senator George's recent suggestion so that the Democrats can't take credit for inspiring the meeting.

Another important question asked at both luncheons was whether in view of the military crisis in the Far East, the President would abandon his cuts in the size of the Army.

In each case, Ike gave an emphatic no.

"The army is big enough for present or contemplated emergencies," he said. "However, if the situation changes radically and we are compelled to send a considerable number of troops overseas, we would in that event have to increase our reserves at home."

Court Upholds Conviction Of Bramblett

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett's (R-Calif.) conviction on a payroll padding charge has been upheld by the Supreme Court. He faces a maximum jail term of 35 years.

The Supreme Court overthrew by a 6-0 decision Monday Bramblett's contention that the federal statute against false statements does not apply to Congress.

In another major ruling, the high court struck a blow at the National Labor Relations Board's power over labor disputes. It held in a 5-3 ruling that lower federal courts cannot interfere with state court injunctions against picketing of firms in interstate commerce.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, and Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, dissented. They warned that the ruling strips the NLRB of powers granted by Congress and gives employers an unfair advantage.

New Justice John Marshall Harlan, after one week on the court, handed down his first dissent. He joined the so-called "Liberal bloc" of Black and Douglas in opposing the court's action rejecting the appeal of the American Civil Liberties Union against a Chicago ban on the film "The Miracle."

20 Jap Girls to Receive Plastic Surgery for Injuries at Hiroshima

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty Japanese girls, so disfigured by the Hiroshima atom blast that they have lived as virtual recluses, will arrive here within the month for plastic surgery and medical treatment which may return them to normal life, it was announced here today.

The girls, now 19 to 24 years old, were trapped in a public school by the first atomic attack on Aug. 6, 1945.

They will be flown here together by the United States Air Force and will receive free care from two doctors and a hospital through the interest of Norman Cousins, editor of The Saturday Review.

Two doctors have volunteered their services for the young women. A hospital has offered to supply all hospital facilities without charge.

Finest Hour of the Twenty-Four!

He's traveling his favorite highway behind the wheel of his favorite car—and he's about an hour out from his destination.

What a happy prospect for a happy hour!

Imagine, for instance, the marvelous rest and relaxation it will bring him.

He'll just sit there with his hands resting gently on the wheel... cradled by those deep, soft cushions... and with the soft sound of the wind for a lullaby.

And insofar as his driving is concerned—well, what could be more restful! The car's every movement will be regulated by the merest touch of toe and hand. Steering, for instance, will be little more than a gesture... and braking will require only the gentlest pressure on the pedal.

And what a wonderful time it will be to think and plan! For his mind will clear and his spirits will rise with each passing mile.

Yes, he's about to enjoy one of the finest hours of the whole twenty-four—and it may even be one of the most profitable!

In fact, many of America's foremost executives will tell you that some of their wisest business decisions have been made at the wheel of a Cadillac.

As you might have gathered, you've been missing out on something wonderful if you haven't treated yourself to an hour in a 1955 Cadillac.

That's why we say—come in soon and take a "sixty-minute vacation" in the "car of cars."

The keys are waiting for you—and you'll be welcome at any time.

Red China Purges Two High Officials

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communist Party tightened its controls today over would-be dissenters.

But there was every indication the purge of two high officials from party ranks as announced by the Communist New China News Agency meant the party high command had solidified its control, strongly backed by the army.

The Communists announced that Kao Kang, one-time boss of industrially rich Manchuria, and Jao Shu-shih, director of the Communist Party's organizational bureau, were purged for conspiring to seize control of the party and government.

Kao received posthumous expulsion from the party inasmuch as the Reds said he committed suicide rather than confess his crimes. Peiping said Jao still lives, although in disgrace.

George Frederick Henley, who has been stationed in Corpus Christi, Texas, with the Navy for the past two years, arrived in Harrisburg Saturday to visit with relatives and friends before leaving for overseas duty. He will report to Navy headquarters in New York later this month prior to leaving for duty in Iceland. Henley was accompanied to Harrisburg by Bob Middleton, Copper Hill, Tenn. The two have been in the same unit at Corpus Christi and will go to Iceland on the same orders.

Only four motor vehicles were registered in the United States in 1895.

Couple Admits Fatally Beating Foster Son, 4

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—A 22-year old couple pleaded guilty to the fatal beating of their 4-year-old foster son last Jan. 10.

Pleading guilty to manslaughter charges Monday, Warren and Janice Cheterbok, Warrenville, Ill., eliminated any chance that they might have been sentenced to death for murder.

A jury panel of 100 persons had been called and Asst. State's Atty William J. Bauer was ready to demand the death penalty.

Cheterbok testified that he hit the boy "again and again and again for having bad table manners."

Mrs. Cheterbok also admitted striking the boy, Gregory, after forcing him to stand in a corner for half an hour.

She requested probation. Judge Harry C. Daniels said arguments on the matter would be heard Wednesday.

Churchill Resigns As Prime Minister

ments and returned to Queen Elizabeth II the charge he had last accepted from her father, King George VI, 3 1/2 years ago.

Sentries snapped to a salute as his car drove through the iron gates of Buckingham Palace. Churchill stepped out and entered.

He was met by a palace page dressed in blue battledress with scarlet royal cypher on the pocket. The page was assigned to conduct Churchill in an electric elevator to the Queen's apartments.

"The prime minister, Your Majesty," an equestrian announced.

The words they exchanged were their own. They were not only sovereign and prime minister, but trusted old friends whose affection was mutual.

The procedure of resignation was as simple as it was far-reaching for the British Commonwealth of nations: A request to the Queen to let him and his ministers quit, and a recommendation that she summon Eden to succeed him.

Churchill goes next week to Sicily for a vacation in the sunshine, free at last of the burdens of a lifetime which has earned him regard as statesman, soldier, author and orator.

Reading about the great man in some future era, men might truly say as does the book of Genesis: "There were giants in the earth in those days."

It had been an emotional 24 hours for the old Prime Minister. He played host to his sovereign at a formal dinner party Monday night and received the almost-unprecedented accolade of a personal toast from the Queen.

The sparkling Queen cast protocol and tradition aside and rose to tell the old man what was in her heart.

Moment of Humility
She took the almost unheard of step of offering a toast to a commoner on a private occasion. Majestic in diamond tiara and gem-studded gown of white tulle, Elizabeth said in a clear, vibrant voice that she was going to do what few sovereigns ever before had done. "I propose the health of my Prime Minister," she said. Her eyes glistened in the moment of historic humility.

Churchill, who shortly before had made a moving, little three-minute speech, bowed his massive head in humble appreciation.

The list of guests read like a roll call of Churchill's closest friends from his wartime days of greatness—Britain's most honored military leaders and Churchill's oldest and closest political friends and foes.

Churchill also served Elizabeth's father King George VI in the same post, her grandfather King George V and her great-grandfather King Edward VII as a member of the cabinet and her great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, as a member of Parliament. He has stood by as friend and counsellor when her uncle, King Edward VIII, abdicated.

New Segregation Law in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new segregation measure aimed at keeping white students from attending schools with Negroes went into Mississippi law books today.
Gov. Hugh White signed the law among 54 bills passed by a special legislative session. The segregation law levies fines and possible jail sentences on white students who attend state-supported schools with Negro students. Violators will face fines of from $1 to $25, six months in jail or both.

Ravages Large Areas In North Carolina

FAIRFIELD, N. C. (AP) — Dozens of soldiers, Marines, Coastguardsmen and National Guardsmen with heavy equipment turned out today to fight the "largest" and "most dangerous" forest fire in North Carolina history.

The blaze raced across tractless coastal flatlands on a 10-mile front, spreading through tree tops "like a cyclone" in a sweep across 250,000 acres ravaged since last Tuesday.

"It's the largest fire we ever had," Assistant State Forester Paul Tillman said in Raleigh. "It's the most dangerous condition we ever had and it's in the worst place from a fire-fighting standpoint."

Forestry officials declared Monday the fire had become a "major emergency situation" when three towns came within its possible scope. Members of the military services turned out with pumps and other fire-fighting equipment.

GOP Hopes for Large Turnout in Chicago Election

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago elects a new mayor today and Republicans hoped for a huge turnout to overthrow the long-entrenched Democratic "machine."

The GOP staked its comeback hopes on a 36-year-old reformer, Robert E. Merriam. Merriam was a Democrat until a few months ago, but broke with the party charging a link between crime and politics.

His opponent was Richard J. Daley, 52, a veteran officeholder who also heads the powerful Cook County Democratic organization.

The expected vote ranged from 1,000,000 to 1,400,000 or higher. Republicans were frank in admitting they needed a heavy turnout to overcome the hard core of at least 600,000 votes which the Democratic "machine" can usually throw into a major election.

Election day found temperatures in the 50s, intermittent rains, and brisk winds off Lake Michigan.

The raw weather threatened to hold down the vote, unless Chicagoans have been aroused by one of the bitterest fights for the mayor's chair in many years.

Merriam has charged a Daley "ghost" would be engineered by "victor" voters and would result in a crime-ridden, "wide open" city.

He climaxed his campaign Monday night with a television appeal to "throw the rascals out."

Daley countered by pointing to his long and scandal-free record as a state legislator, state revenue director under Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, and Cook County clerk, the post he now holds.

College Student Kills Himself

LEBANON, N. H. (AP) — An unhappy married life was blamed today for the death of a 22-year-old college student.

John Dicey Jr. fatally shot himself late Monday in a city park following an argument with his estranged wife, Norma.

Dicey, a University of Illinois student, returned here with his wife a month ago. They separated and went to the homes of their parents.

War or Peace is Up To Chinese Reds, Dulles Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Far Eastern situation is highly dangerous and the question of war or peace is up to the Chinese Communists.

If the Chinese Red leaders mean what they say about wanting peace, Dulles told a news conference, there will be no war in the Pacific.

Dulles at the same time flatly rejected new proposals in Congress that the United States say now whether it would defend the Chinese Nationalist-held Quemoy and Matsu islands against a Chinese Red attack.

Dulles said he did not see how this could be done. He said it would amount to entering onto very difficult ground.

Dulles described American policy toward the offshore islands in this way:

The United States is committed by treaty to defend Formosa and the Pescadores Islands held by the Nationalists. There is no additional commitment of any sort, direct or indirect, to defend anything else.

Then the question arises as to how you defend Formosa, he said.

He said the defense of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu would be important only if an attack on them was related to an attack on Formosa and the Pescadores.

President Eisenhower has told Congress he would order U. S. forces to defend Quemoy and Matsu only if an attack on them was recognizable as a "preliminary" to assault on Formosa or the Pescadores.

The administration's position is that it would be a mistake to draw the Communists a blueprint of U. S. intentions.

MIAMI, Fla. — A New York Yankee play-by-play man found himself in a bit of a predicament on an exhibition trek here from Florida's west coast that after return to St. Pete he ducked the club for a quick return to the gay life . . . family man, too. . .

Didn't meet a pelota plunger at the new Hollywood, Fla., jai alai fronton who thought they swung the cista on the square . . . and who, nevertheless, didn't pour in the pesos at the gambling windows . . . fascinating sport, though. . .

One of the older and more respected golfers on the pro circuit teed off privately on Mike Souchak's flare-up in the last round of the St. Petersburg Open when the Durham Driver got in an argument with a galleryite over whether or not he (Souchak) had too much temper. "Good golf is no business argument with a spectator," snapped the old pro. As a Duke University griddler, Mike was already a fine golfer . . . so much so he sneaked off week-ends to clean up in matches around Asheville . . . under another name.

Unforgettable: the elderly dog-agers at Pinehurst all gussed formal of a Friday evening . . . and adjourning to the TV room promptly at 10 (EST) to expert bouts involving kids Costa, Martinez, Lopes or Medeiros. . .

If Gulfstream Park ever gets the early dates on Florida's racing season, it would drive Tropical Park right out of business . . . the little track would starve in April. . . But since the state legislature has budgeted money not collected till next year, Tropical has to stay solvent, our agent advises. . . No more intelligent promoter in equine circles than Horace Wade, Gulfstream guest-greeter. . .

Could Pat Lesser of Seattle be contemplating a conversion to pro golf by entering every tournament on the winter wheel . . . especially the Opens? . . .

George Weiss of the Yanks was against shoveling out all the bonus money ($40,000) to pirate 18-year-old shortstop Tom Carroll from Notre Dame. . . But Chief Scout Paul Krichell insisted the Yanks have to get in the bonus swim . . . or miss all the superior kids. On the football side, Notre Dame has to contend next fall with a sell-out against hopped-up Miami of Florida . . . already boosting Whitney Rouviere, an all purpose right half, for All-America. . .

After 18 years in boxing, light-heavy champ Archie Moore cleared $44,000 last year . . . after one year, his biggest threat, Floyd Patterson, already netted half that, or $22,000. . .

Before shooting down to Mexico City and a victory in the Pan-Am games, phenomenal half miler Arnie Sowell of Pitt lengthened out in a practice session just for the heck of it . . . and running on the slower boards, without any competition, without extending himself, was clocked in 4:12 in the first mile he ever ran. . .

U. S. Open champ Ed Furgol is postponing required surgery on his right arm because it would lay him off for a year . . . although he's playing in constant pain. . .

Connie Mack, 92, was seen at a movie the other night without glasses . . . and was seen frequently on the Pirates' bench at Ft. Myers for three innings or so during games. . . They were the first club he ever managed—in 1894-95-96. . .

Between you'n me, the Cleveland Indians have the right idea in baseball promotion, with behind the fence parties and picnics in the vast center field spaces . . . but can you imagine Larry Doby landing in your potato salad? . . .

PLENTY OF WINNERS

Horse billiards is the name given to the game of shuffleboard when played on shipboard. . .

Indians Take 8-7 Lead In Series with Giants

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were able to clinch at least a tie in the spring version of the 1954 World Series today when they met the world champion New York Giants.

The Indians took an 8-7 lead in the 18-game series at Montgomery, Ala., Monday when they hit veterans Marv Grissom and Larry Jansen hard in a 9-5 triumph. Wally Westlake hit a three-run homer off Grissom in the first inning to spark the Indians' 14-hit attack.

Bob Feller yielded four of the Giants' runs in the first four innings with Art Houtteman hurling the last five frames.

FWOLVER TO HURL OPENER FOR REDS

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Art Fowler, who posted a 12-10 last season as a rookie, was named today to pitch the Cincinnati Reds' opening game next Monday against the Chicago Cubs.

MANTLE, CAREY SPARK YANKEE WIN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Center-fielder Mickey Mantle and third-baseman Andy Carey reached new spring highs with their batting average today as the New York Yankees continued to feast on minor league pitching.

Mantle collected three hits and Carey blasted three triples Monday to lead the Yankees to an 11-8 victory over Chattanooga. Mantle's average now is .346 while Carey's is .333.

CUBS WIN FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs boasted a winning streak of five games today but only after a real "squeaker" with Beaumont of the Texas league. The Cubs were held to four hits by 33-year old Jim Atkins and 35-year old Pete Mallory Monday but bunched three of them in the fifth inning to gain a 2-1 victory. The Cubs play Beaumont again today.

MATHEWS HITS HOMERS BUT BRAVES LOSE
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It took Ed Mathews a while to get the range but the Milwaukee Braves' slugger is back today on the home run beam.

Mathews blasted three homers in Nashville, Tenn. Monday. They weren't quite enough, however, as the Dodgers pounded out a 10-8 victory to square the spring series with Milwaukee at four wins each.

Hank Aaron also homered for the Braves while Sandy Amoros hit two two-run homers for the Dodgers.

PIRATES BEAT BALTIMORE ORIOLES, 9-8
COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates left pitcher Dick Hall, first-baseman Tooy Bartolome and outfielder Jerry Lynch today for further assignment.

Manager Fred Haney made the announcement Monday after the Pirates beat the Baltimore Orioles, 9-8. It was their sixth win in eight games with the Orioles and gave them a 13-3 record against American league teams this spring.

Joe Coleman, a possible Baltimore opening day pitcher, was routed in the first inning when the Pirates scored five runs on six hits. Frank Thomas, Toby Atwell and George Freese hit homers for the Pirates while Bobby Young, Les Moss and Gil Coan homered for the Orioles.

DITMAR MOST EFFECTIVE OF A'S PITCHERS
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Art Ditmar shaped up today as the most effective spring pitcher in the Kansas City Athletics' camp.

Ditmar yielded only two hits and struck out seven batters as the Athletics beat the Columbia Redlegs, 7-1, at Columbia, S. C., Monday.

Gus Zernial paced the Athletics' attack with a home run—his fifth in four games. Jim Finigan weighed in with three hits.

Ike May Use Mystery Pitch To Open Season
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower had an overnight change of heart and will not go to the left, after all, with his opening day baseball pitch.

The Republican right hander from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue is expected by well-informed sources to come up with a mystery pitch—a delivery not heretofore attempted by a presidential pitcher.

Mr. Eisenhower caused some consternation in the big league baseball set Monday when he announced through owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators that he might have to turn southpaw for next Monday's ceremonial first pitch.

Griffith, a chipper 85, had just made his 43rd annual pilgrimage to the White House to invite the President of the United States out to the season-opening ball game. He gave the President season passes and then asked the Chief Executive if his good right arm was in shape for his third opening-day pitching assignment.

Griffith reported that Mr. Eisenhower was happy to accept the pitching duty. But he confided to Griffith that bursitis in his right shoulder might force him to do something drastic—pitch left-handed.

The experts could find no record that Mr. Eisenhower had any experience as a southpaw pitcher. They recalled that, even as an experienced right-hander, he once lost control and bounced a pitch into the backside of William McKinley, the umpire.

Any misgivings were put at rest by a White House source who is informed about pitching, flycasting, putting greens and squirrels. The word from this source is that Mr. Eisenhower will throw right-handed, all right. But, to favor his bursitis, the President is expected to use a golfing backswing and throw side-arm—just like Walter Johnson used to do.

"I don't care," which way he throws," Griffith said happily. "The important thing is that the President is going to be in there pitching that first ball."

DOWN, BUT SAFE—Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson slides across the plate after safely stealing in exhibition game against White Sox. Batter Roy Campanella went sprawling as did Chisox' catcher Clint Courtney to give play a bowling alley effect. Ump John Stevens keeps feet to flash safe sign.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Two former HTHS athletes are candidates for the tennis team at Southern Illinois university. Trying for the team, which opens its regular schedule against Bradley next Saturday, are Ron Riegel and Bill Epperheimer of Harrisburg. However, they are battling against several with college experience, including three lettermen and probably will not make the team this year. Riegel and Epperheimer are freshmen at SIU.

Spring football practice at SIU has attracted 35 candidates, including nine lettermen. The practice sessions will continue for about four weeks.

Maybe Frank Willis, Eldorado miler, will be another Bob Pitchers. Pitchers was the Equality high school boy who suddenly blossomed out as a miler his junior year after finding out he could run when taking part in cross country mostly to get in shape for the coming basketball season. That was two or three years ago. He won the state mile run in 1953.

Last fall Willis went out for cross country at Eldorado to start building up his endurance for the approaching cage season. Willis took second in the district cross country meet.

Last Friday he ran a 4:46.1 mile in a dual track meet at West Frankfort. This was by far the best time for the mile in these parts on that particular day. In a Johnston City at Marion dual meet the mile was won by Brown of Marion at 5:24. Olkaski of Hurst-Bush won the mile in 5:18 in a Carbondale-Hurst meet and in a triangular meet, featuring Zeigler, Sesser and Carterville Whaley of Sesser was the mile winner with time of 5:00.3.

Willis is the wiry, little southpaw dribbler on the Eagle basketball team.

The Cincinnati slugger, Ted Klus-zewski, is believed by many to be capable of breaking Babe Ruth's home run record. But as for Ted himself, says The Sporting News, he doesn't intend to make any deliberate attempt to break it. "It can't be done by trying," he says. "The only time I ever deliberately went out after homers last year," Ted said the other day, "was in the last five games. I had 49 homers and wanted to make it 50. I swung for the fences, but couldn't make it. Which proves my point."

American League Umpire-in-Chief Cal Hubbard says he doesn't believe the 20-second rule on pitchers will cause much trouble this year. Under the rule, a pitcher must deliver the ball within 20 seconds after he steps on the rubber. The Sporting News quotes Hubbard as saying that the longest delay clocked during the training season was only 11 seconds.

Indiana U. to Build New Stadium And Fieldhouse
CHICAGO (AP)—Plans are under way to make Indiana a more potent factor in the Big Ten, University Athletic Director Frank E. Allen said.

Allen announced plans to build a new stadium and a new fieldhouse on ground just north of the existing structures at Bloomington, Ind.

Size of the new stadium was not disclosed, but the fieldhouse was expected to accommodate 17,000. Allen also told the Indiana Alumni Club here Monday that recruiting of athletes will be stepped up through the newly formed "Varsity Club," a group of alumni who will contribute money.

Dues are set at $3 a year, although members may give more, he said. Varsity Club head Claude Rich said $12,000 has already been raised and will be used for recruiting athletes next fall.

Managing from Washington Won't Help Dodgers in National Race

ON THE 'IN'—Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn's veteran shortstop gives rookie infielders Charley Neal, center, and Chico Fernandez some advice as Flock starts journey from Florida to Flatbush.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (NEA)—Charley Dessen might not have been kidding when he said that the Dodgers should win "unless they all bust their arms."

A club has to possess an overabundant supply of talent when it could confine to the dugout an infield superior to those of half the major league outfits. A club hardly is in dire straits when it has to put a Junior Gilliam on the market to make room for a Don Zimmer, while Charley Neal, Chico Fernandez and Don Hoak crowd one another off the bench.

A baseball mortgage could be paid off with what the 23-year-olds, Fernandez and Neal, up from Montreal and St. Paul, respectively, and a whiz double play combination, would bring from, say the Red Sox.

They said the same thing about the Brooks a year ago, however, and the Flock finally was knocked out of contention by the lowly Pirates.

Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson, 36; Roy Campanella, whom the records show to be 34; and Carl Furillo, 33, are a year older.

It wasn't difficult to put a finger on Brooklyn's principal trouble of 1954. Coming out of the Army, Don Newcombe was continually behind the hitter. Campanella injured the ulnar nerve in his left hand.

Newcombe now appears to be pitching with his former authority and assurance and Campanella is gripping the bat, although the catching end of the famous battery doesn't exactly look good carrying at least 20 pounds of excess suet.

All last season Walter Alston rocked himself to sleep counting left fielders, and this particular problem obviously will still be there unless Sandy Amoros gets more vicious against southpaw slinging. If left-handers continue to get Amoros out, there are indications that Gil Hodges may play left field against them, as ridiculous as that may seem. That would put Robinson on first base.

Another contemplated emergency move has Reese switching to third base if Robinson's knees kick up. That would install young Fernandez at shortstop and Zimmer is expected to open the season at second base, where it, suddenly has been discovered, Jim Gilliam is anything but a Red Schoendienst pivoting on a double play.

So the Brooklyn club hardly can be considered solid all the way down the line.

Buzzy Bavasi's eagerness to obtain Smokey Burgess, the Phillies' left-hand hitting catcher, was something in the way of evidence that the brass still considers Campanella as somewhat of a risk.

Flatbush has the big player in Duke Snider and plenty of pitching . . . if they all pitch. Karl Spooner established strikeout record last fall joining Newcombe, Carl Erskine, Billy Loes, Russ Meyer, Johnny Podres, Pete Wojciech and the relief workers, Jim Hughes and Clem Labine.

Joe Black, the National league's most valuable player of 1952, threatens to stage a comeback. New candidates are Eddie Roebuck, who bagged 18 for Montreal, and Ron Negray, Bob Darnell and Don Bessent, recalled from St. Paul. Darnell has been wild, Bessent has had arm trouble. Negray has good stuff.

Somehow, Brooklyn stumbled in as a not-back second last year. Dessen, now in an administrative spot in Washington, insists that the Dodgers should have coped the glue. Maybe the guy is right. If they stayed up close with such as Charley Thompson, a catcher, in left field, anything can happen with a touch of improvement, although the blocks across the bridges are still without even a poor man's Dusty Rhodes.

Despite what may be holes in the Dodgers, they could do it, as Dessen stresses.

But Charley Dessen's needling from the other league won't help.

BOATS AND OUTBOARD MOTORS . . .

Insurance

NOW . . . Broad Form Insurance on Boats and Outboard Motors covering "all risks" of loss or damage.

Here's the complete protection you want against fire, theft, collision, loss of motor, overboard, and other loss or damage under the new "all risks" insurance policy. Boats, outboard motors and miscellaneous equipment, including boat carrier or trailer, may be insured under this BROAD FORM coverage at a fraction of replacement cost.

The BROAD-FORM policy insures small boats (other than inboard motor boats) and outboard motors, while afloat or ashore, anywhere in the Continental United States and Canada. There are a few reasonable exclusions under the BROAD FORM policy such as wear and tear, gradual deterioration, mechanical breakdown, and similar uninsurable hazards which are excluded under standard "all risks" policies.

RESTRICTED FORM COVERAGE
If limited protection against fire, theft, windstorm, collision, and loss of motor overboard fits your needs, the RESTRICTED FORM coverage can be written on your boat and outboard motor at a lower rate.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving and Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Harrisburg, Illinois, Thursday ON-LY, April 7, 1955. These private demonstrations will be held at the Horsing Hotel on Thursday ONLY, April 7, 2 p. m. till 9 p. m.

CHICAGO (Special)—In an interview here today Mr. E. V. Safranski, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Millard Hair and Scalp Specialists said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

"The Millard firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Safranski said.

Once a person avails himself to the Millard treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First the Millard specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in this lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin, or colorless, the Millard people can perform wonders.

Every one is given a complete, private examination to determine the condition of his scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

2959 East Ninety-Second Street, Chicago, Illinois

FREE EXAMINATIONS

This examination is very thorough and highly technical, it requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After examination he is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, he makes regular reports to the Millard firm in Chicago, and a trichologist will return to check his progress periodically.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, the Millard firm is sending specialists to various cities throughout the United States to conduct examinations and start home treatment.

NO CURE-ALL

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness," Safranski emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Safranski wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up on the crown of the head there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

HAIR FOR LIFETIME

"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Safranski said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it is all faithful observation of a few simple rules."

HOW'S YOUR HAIR?

If it worries you call Trichologist W. L. Organ at the Horsing Hotel in Harrisburg, Illinois, on Thursday ONLY, April 7, 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. The public is invited. You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

The door opened and Jess Carmichael entered. "Ouch!" exclaimed Johnny. He shot a quick, accusing look at Lieutenant Madigan.

Carmichael nodded to Johnny. "How are you, Fletcher? I thought I'd run over and talk to you for a minute, but I see you've got company."

"He isn't company," Johnny said easily. "He's a policeman, Lieutenant Madigan, Mr. Carmichael."

Carmichael nodded acknowledgment but did not offer to shake hands with the lieutenant. "I had a little chat with the deputy commissioner this morning."

"I know," said Lieutenant Madigan unhappily. "I am assigned to the case."

"Then why aren't you out working on it?" asked Carmichael curtly. "I want the man or woman who killed my son." He stopped, made a gesture. "Never mind, Fletcher, I want a word with you in private."

"I was just leaving," said Madigan stiffly.

"Goodby, sir," Carmichael said. "I had a phone call a little while ago. From—"

"Just a moment," said Johnny. He whipped open the door and said to Lieutenant Madigan who was standing just outside, "That's the elevator over there."

Red-faced, Madigan whirled away. Johnny waited until the elevator came and Madigan was aboard.

"Cops have big ears," Carmichael looked around the meagerly furnished hotel room. "I used to have a room like this once. Paid $4 a week for it."

"This crummy hotel charges us $12?"

"Us?"

"I have a pal, Sam Cragg, the strongest man in the world." Then, as Carmichael looked at him inquiringly: "I'm a book salesman. I sell a book called 'Every Man a Samson.' Sam helps me. We put a chain around his chest and I give the suckers, I mean, the prospective customers a sales pitch on strength and vigor. Sam breaks the chain by expanding his chest. And then I sell the books."

"Not bad," said Carmichael. "Not bad at all. In my first store I had a big glass jar full of beans. Everybody who made a purchase had the privilege of making a guess as to how many beans there were in the jar. If they guessed the right number of beans, they got a prize of $100 in cash. He chuckled. "Nobody ever even came close. You'd be surprised though how many people bought jars of the same size and filled them with beans and then counted the beans one by one. They still couldn't guess the number of beans."

"Because you put some big stones in the center of the jar where they couldn't see them?"

"Smart," said Carmichael. "Only it wasn't stones—it was blocks of wood. Mind you, I didn't lie about it. I just didn't mention that the jar wasn't filled solidly with beans. I wouldn't exactly cheat anyone, but, after all I didn't make $100 a week off that store."

"A man's got to be sharp to get by," said Johnny.

"True, Fletcher, true. I used to tell Jess all the time . . ." He stopped, his face becoming sober. "That brings me back to the reason I'm here. This woman who telephoned me—Alice Cummings, she calls herself."

"Ah, yes!"

Carmichael frowned. "When Jess was a small boy, seven or eight, I gave him a bank."

"A bronze goose bank?"

"You know about it?" Carmichael asked eagerly.

"Perhaps you'd better finish," Johnny suggested.

"I had a dozen stores by that time," Carmichael went on. "My wife had died and a governess was taking care of Jess. I wasn't rich, but I was comfortably off. I wanted to teach him the value of thrift, so I gave him this little bank. For some reason it became Jess's favorite toy."

Carmichael drew a deep breath. "And then he grew up and I don't believe I ever saw the goose bank again. And now this woman tells me that she has the bank and wants to sell it to me."

"For how much?"

"That's the fantastic part of it, $50,000."

"Fifty thousand . . ."

"I hung up on her. She called back. Said she wasn't just selling me the bank, she was selling me the name of the person who murdered Jess. What do you think of that?"

"Mr. Carmichael," Johnny said softly, "she might have been telling the truth. Since yesterday more people have tried to get that bank from me."

"You have it?"

"I had it. It was stolen from this room this morning."

Carmichael groaned. "Why didn't you tell me you had the bank?"

"I didn't know it was so valuable when I had it."

"The woman knew. She told me over the phone that Jess had had a premonition of his death and that he'd told her if something happened to him to give the bank to me, because it contained the name of the person who had killed him."

Johnny dug deep into his right trousers pocket and brought out the handful of coins he had taken from the bank the day before. He dumped them on the counterpane of the bed. "They got the bank, this morning, but I had already emptied it. This is what was in the bank."

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: 'SHIVAREE'

By John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

A friend of the bridegroom often parks "the get-away car" in the vicinity of the church. This apparently is done in a way calculated to attract the least amount of attention. Despite all precautions taken, however, the plan to have the car remain unidentified generally fails — possibly through the connivance of the trusted friend who so kindly first parked it.

After the wedding ceremony, the car generally is found to be anything but inconspicuous. It may have long festoons of brilliantly colored crepe paper, cowbells, tin cans, "just married" signs, old shoes and other assorted impedimenta attached in various ways and places.

The practice of decorating the car of a newly-married couple and of giving them a noisy sendoff is not such an old one. The custom does, however, come from an earlier one that has all but disappeared. It takes the place of the "shivaree," c-h-a-r-i-v-a-r-i of spelling match days. The shivaree was a common practice of the pioneers. There were even those who considered a marriage as hardly properly recognized until the couple had been subjected to the ordeal.

Became Mark of Respect

No one seems to know just when the practice began, but earlier references to the charivari in France indicate that it first was a device used to express disapproval and derision. If any such significance was attached to it when it was brought to America by the French, that feature soon disappeared. It rather became a mark of respect.

The unshivareed often felt slightly neglected.

The shivaree itself was a serenade of "rough music" made with horns, wagon thimbles, kettles, pans, tubs, tea trays, ticktacks, dumb bells, guns, circle saws, conch shells, and in fact any thing calculated to make a noise. Opinion concerning the quality of the performance was based on its loudness, confusion, and discord.

"Decibels" were then unused. Those who were to participate in the observance, only men and boys, so far as the author knows, gathered at some home in the community to await the time when the couple to be shivareed had gone to bed. They would then quietly gather about the house and await the prearranged signal to "cut loose."

This beginning signal might be a gunshot, tub thump, or a resounding whoop.

Must Treat Crowd

The onset was usually terrific and startling. In one case the author recalls that the husband, a "tongue tied" man, dashed madly out to inform us that "Truthie" (Susie) was scared and had fainted. The celebrants finally understood him.

After the din had been kept up for a reasonable length of time the door was supposed to be opened and the celebrants admitted. An occasional stubborn householder failed to open up. In winter time the situation was easily remedied. One of the celebrants would climb to the roof, place a plank over the chimney and thus "smoke 'em out."

The husband being shivareed was supposed to treat the crowd. In a village he might take them to the tavern. In our rural community with no drinking place for ten miles, settlement was made for apples, steaming coffee, or "what have ye." In one case it was only raw turnips. If the husband "got tough" he might be ridden on a rail or carried to the pond and ducked, even in bitter cold weather.

A shivaree was often followed by a rousing dance or play party. In such a case the girls and women had previously gathered at some nearby home.

We have not heard of a real old-fashioned shivaree in many years. Has this old custom known in different regions as shivaree, belling, horning, bull banding, or call-thumping disappeared with the "run for the bottle" and the "infair dinner"?
